

Gluten and the brain – Professor Marios Hadjivassiliou

Please type your answers below and print for your records or print this document and complete by hand.

Q1	What is the prevalence of gluten ataxia amongst all ataxias?
A
Q2	How can the NAA:Cr ratio be used to monitor improvements in gluten ataxia?
A
Q3	What percentage of patients with coeliac disease who are following a gluten free diet have a neuropathy?
A
Q4	In a prospective study investigating neurological symptoms in patients with coeliac disease, 61% were found to have neurological symptoms. What were some of the commonly reported neurological symptoms?
A
Q5	How do TG6 antibodies differ between patients with neurological or gastroenterological presentation of coeliac disease?
A
Q6	Are there differences in the types of neurological manifestations and the severity of these manifestations seen in patients with coeliac disease and patients with non coeliac gluten sensitivity?
A
Q7	Is there a difference in the average age of diagnosis of coeliac disease for those presenting with only neurological symptoms compared to those with gastrointestinal symptoms?

After answering these questions, should you require any further information, please contact us at ruth.passmore@coeliac.org.uk. You can also discuss this further on our HCP forum: www.coeliac.org.uk/hcp-forum.