There is an amendment within our service to how we display these products. These products contain Barley and therefore in future publications will have a symbol B denoting this. These particular products hold the Crossed Grain trademark and are gluten free, which means they have been tested to ensure they meet the requirements of the gluten free legislation (i.e. they contain 20 parts per million or less of gluten). The production facilities have also successfully met the requirements of the dedicated gluten free standard that underpins the Crossed Grain trademark scheme.
